对 L^AT_EX 的认识

LaTeX is a tex-based typesetting system with functions similar to that of word, but using it to write papers is a completely new experience: - complex tables and mathematical formulas can be generated in code; - more beautiful layout; - format can be unified control, eliminating the problem of continuous format adjustment; - latex can preserve the whole writing process, while word can only retain the final result (flexible use of annotations); - automatic batch generation of references; - Linux support excellent; - open source; - many magazines only accept LaTeX manuscripts; Writing a paper is like writing a program. Complex formulas, charts and code generated by tapping, also support comments, too cool.
